He is definitely one of the best teachers I have ever had the opportunity to learn from. He cares so much about his students and obviously puts in so much work in his lesson plans. I have definitely learned a lot from his class not only about economics but life skills. Every other person I speak to in class also thinks the same. We are all very lucky that he came to UNCW. Thank you so much for all that you do!

Great professor with a heart of gold. Seriously loved his students and teaches content well!!
Great teacher who cares about his students.
He was a fantastic professors, one of my favorite throughout this semester and was extremely informational and engaging to help us truly understand Macroeconomic and the facets of there being. Absolutely would highly recommend. :)
Great professor love how he writes everything we need to know on the board.
One of the best courses I have taken at UNCW. Thank you.
Thank you so much for being so kind and understanding!
I believe Dr. Abeyie is one of the best professors that UNCW has. He is personally my favorite professor I have had while at UNCW, and I am currently a Sophmore. I believe he teaches perfectly, on a board and in a way that everyone can understand. He is one of the only professors I have had so far in the business program that does not simply read off slides, and while it may seem minor, this does make a big difference in learning. It feels like Dr. Abeyie truly cares about each student in the class and on top of his already professional level of teaching, he appears to be the happiest person in the room each day of class. I am happy every single day coming into class, which I can certainly not say about other classes. If I had to give any advice, I would possibly change the way homework is done. I think the Achieve assignments are a good way to do homework; however, I believe IClicker is a little flawed. I think it is effective when doing in class group quizzes; however, for attendance I find it can be flawed. For example, on days that we do not do questions on IClicker, I often forget to open it, meaning I get an absence even though I was present in class. Perhaps a possible solution could be what my professor does in Accounting. She has a paper with a list of every student's name on it, and simply passes that sheet out during the middle of class. Each student simply writes their initials next to their name to show they were there. That is just one option. Other than this, I also believe that exams would be better in class on paper. I find that Respondus Lock Down Browser is flawed, especially when people are trying to open it in class an ask questions while others are trying to take their exam. If the ease of an online exam is that beneficial, which I understand it is helpful not having to grade paper exams, perhaps make the exam harder, open note, and let students take it on their own time out of class. Or simply use a scantron. Those are my only two reccomendations. I have enjoyed this class and thank you for your time.
Dr. Abeyie was a caring and thoughtful professor who consistently ensured that students remained engaged. I appreciate him always asking his students how he could improve the course and considering our thoughts!
He was a great professor and I genuinely enjoyed this class

This has by far been one of the best classes I have taken this far at UNCW. I took this class last semester with Dr. Sharma and it was awful. Never did I feel confused or lost in Dr. Abeyie's class. He wrote on the board and slowed down on topics he felt passionate about. So kind, understanding, and great at being a professor. 10/10

I really enjoyed the course and I am very glad that I took it as part of my study abroad semester. Personally I would've liked it if we would've thought about some policies a bit more cirtically (e.g. how effective they actually are in real life) as well as used the chain of reasoning a bit more (e.g. how and why do certain policies effect the economy). But I assume that this will be done in higher-level economics classes. Thank you very much!

Professor Gabe was an excellent professor for it to be his first semester at UNCW. Yes, there were a few learning curves, but he often asked feedback from his students and tried to cater the course and his teaching style to us as much as he could. He is very understanding and knows the material very well. I enjoyed his class and would recommend to others.
